"AWFUL TRUTH" A SUCCESS.

"The Awful Truth," by Arthur Richman, in which Miss Ruth Chatterton is now appearing at the Columbia Theater, San Francisco, has scored a great success there. The play was obtained by Glibert Miller for production next season by Charles Frohman, Inc., and Henry Miller undertook to give it a preliminary production in San Francisco.

"The Hotel Mouse," in which Frances White and Taylor Holmes are appearing at the Shubert Theater, will end its New York engagement to-night, opening on Monday evening in Chicago.

Henry Miller's reacter maximum and an armonic of the Darling Twins, the eleven-pear-olds in "Good Morning Dearie," at the Globe Theater, are making preparations to celebrate on June 1 a year at the Globe Theater. Their New York appearance began last season in the "Follies," which occupied the Globe.

Seventeenth Annual Program

By W. J. HENDERSON.

The Russian Opera Company at the New Amsterdam Theater has shown no timidity about producing novelties. Last evening it presented the fourth new work hitherto unknown to this city. This was Tschalkowsky's opera "Christmas Eve," a work which rejoices in the possession of several aliases. It has been known also as "Cherevichky" (which is its Russian name now), "Vakula the Smith" and "Caprice d'Oxane." And what is still more remarkable is the fact that this is a prize opera.

The story is taken from one of Gogol's fantastic tales, "Stories of Mirgorod." The Christmas Eve tale had been chosen in 1873 by the Grand Duchess Helena Pavlovna for a competition created by her, and the opera book written by Polonsky. Five composers have used the theme, Rimsky, Korsakov, Soloviov, Stchourovsky and Lissenky, besides Tschalkowsky, who won the competition.

The developments of the opera concern themselves with the machinations of a witch called Scolocka, who enjoys the valuable privileges of a partnership comings most easily discernible were those of the representation, which was even less effective than others of the Russian Opera Company have been.

Miss Marie Mashir as Oxane and Miss Valentina Valentinova as the Witch were distinguished chiefly by shriliness of tone and ligneous action, while Vladimir Svotlov as Vakula sang with a remarkably incisive quality of tone and acted monotonously. Leonid Gorlenko was the Devil, and expressed his delight at the frailities of those around him by endlessly rubbing his hands. He seemed to enjoy himself, and some of the audience appeared to enjoy him. Perhaps there was more fun in him than a casual American speciator could dispense the remarkable of the seemed to enjoy him.

dividends. They are simply supporting what may become a great institution, he explained.

The regular ticket of officers was elected for the year as follows: John Emerson, president; Miss Ethel Barrymore, first vice-president; Frank Racon, second vice-president; Grant Stewart, secretary, and Frank Gilmore, treasurer.

The council members elected for the next three years are George Arliss, Harry C. Browne, Berton Churchill, Augustin Duncan, Gilbert Emery, Ernest Glendinning, Frank McGlynn, Miss Heien Mackellar, George Marion, Edith Wynne Matthison, Lynn Overman, Miss Laurette Taylor, Walker Whiteside, John Willard, Fritz Williams and Miss Peggy Wood. William C. Fields will serve until the annual election.

The meeting went on record as advising members not to sign valid contracts beyond June 1, 1924, when the Equity's basic agreement with the Producing Managers' Association expires. This is in no way a provocative measure, Mr. Gilmore said, but rather a common sense and practical step.

Another resolution adopted opposed the exposure of stage fillusions or tricks, The resolution came about through a written request from Harry Houdini, president of the Society of American Magicians.
